Christmas Joy

Christmas was coming. Mary was busy in writing to Santa Claus. She asked Santa for her Christmas present which was a set of novels of Sherlock Holmes. She was a big fan of Sherlock Holmes. She hoped that Santa would bring all the novels to her as a Christmas present.

After receiving her letter, Santa worked very hard to prepare her gift. All the elves helped him wrap the books and put them into a beautiful box. After they had finished the packing, Santa then enjoyed his big meal. All the food was delicious. There were turkey, spaghetti and soft drinks. He finished them all. He felt very full and contented.

After that, he started to ride on the sleigh and went to Mary's home hurriedly. Upon arriving, he brought the box of books with him and tried to go down from the chimney. To his surprise, his tummy was too big and he got stuck. He was shocked and called the elves for help at once. The elves soon reached with the magic potions. They let Santa drink a bottle of it. A moment later, Santa's tummy disappeared. Finally, Santa could get through the chimney. He managed to put the books in the socks that Mary had hung beside her bed.

In the end, Santa and the elves were very delighted for they had succeeded in delivering the Christmas present to Mary in time.
