

Stuck on the Island

Written by Chan Yung Tat (5B)

Last Saturday was a wonderful, sunny day and the sea was calm. I had an incredible adventure with my best friend Billy. In the morning, we packed our picnic bags with food and juice. We also took a map, our mobile phones and a compass.

We rowed our boats across the open sea and finally got to the island. There were no other people, it was a desert island. We were happy because we could do what we liked.

First, we built a sandcastle. Next, we went for a swim in the rock pools. We caught a big fish there and we cooked it to eat. Then, we found a cave and explored what was inside. Soon, we felt hungry, so we sat down for lunch. We had a cheesecake, some bananas, apple juice and orange squash. Everything was yummy! We also kept some biscuits and crisps for a tea break later.

After lunch, we noticed that our boat had disappeared. We looked everywhere, but failed to find it. Billy felt worried and I was upset, too. We wanted to go home!

Luckily, we remembered we had our mobile phones. We used them to phone the police. Then, we heard some noise. The police helicopter was coming. We were so surprised. Then we got back home, we were delighted.
